Michel Gelobter, a visiting policy expert in environmental protection, will deliver the next address in Humboldt State University's speaker series, "Sustainable Futures and Energy, the Environment and Society."

Gelobter is the executive director of Redefining Progress, a U.S.-based nonprofit organization working to shift public policy and the economy toward sustainability.

His address, "The Soul of Environmentalism," will be presented Thursday, Nov. 17, at 7 p.m. in Founders Hall Room 118. The presentation and discussion are free and open to the public.

Gelobter has written extensively about global warming, lead poisoning, commons management, sustainability and the relationship between environmental protection and tourism in developing countries.

The series is sponsored by the HSU-Sponsored Programs Foundation Small Grants Program, the Schatz Energy Research Center, the Environment and Community Graduate Program, the College of Natural Resources and Sciences and the Office of the President.
